Interview with the new YING Chair, Tristan Barber

Tristan Barber became the new YING Chair at the YING Conference in July 2022. In this interview, he shares what the added value is of the YING network and what he is looking forward to for the upcoming period.

"As the new YING Chair, I am really looking forward to widening our network of participants and making things feel informal and accessible. I am looking forward to meeting more YINGers and ways to encourage more people to join YING. I am tremendously excited about the EACS Conference in Warsaw in 2023 and the next YING Conference in 2024".

Submit your proposals for the WEEPI Foundation

The WEEPI Foundation has launched a call for proposals for a new round of Stage 1 projects. The call seeks to support clinical or implementation research projects aimed at improving the quality of care for people living with HIV, viral hepatitis or tuberculosis in Central and Eastern Europe. Organisations and institutions from that region are eligible to apply.

The maximum funding for a Stage 1 project is CHF 30,000. Successful Stage 1 projects are eligible to subsequently apply for a larger Stage 2 project grant.

The deadline for submitting applications is 30 September 2022.

Complete the Monkeypox survey

If you are a nurse, doctor or healthcare professional involved with looking after people with monkeypox, we are asking you to contribute to this vital short survey on your experiences so far.

The survey will form part of a large piece of research understanding the experience of healthcare professionals from around the world. It is intended to better understand your experiences so as to inform policy discussions on what healthcare professionals are facing during this global monkeypox outbreak. This is being led by Professor Chloe Orkin, United Kingdom, and will support the international response.

The survey has been translated and is now available in English, Spanish, Portuguese, German, and French.
